From there, you will travel to the salt lakes of Siwa, known for their striking desert setting.

Siwa’s salt lakes and springs are distinctive features of the oasis landscape.

Bir Wahed is located in the center of the Great Sand Sea, just a few kilometers away from the Oasis.

Bir Wahed is known for a hot spring and a nearby freshwater pool.

You will make your way to Cleopatra Spring, a pool surrounded by stones that provides cool freshwater from a nearby spring.

This is a great place to relax and rejuvenate your day by stepping into the refreshing water.The spring is also surrounded by beautiful green palm trees.One of the highlights of your Siwa oasis trip will be watching an amazing desert sunset while walking barefoot across the desert sand.

The Mountain of the Dead, also known as Gabal Elmwata, is a small hill near the northern part of Siwa Town. It is covered with amazing wall paintings and has many rock graves carved into it.It is located on Gebel al-Mawta, which is commonly called the "Mountain of the Dead." Most of the tombs in this area were built during the 26th dynasty, as well as the Ptolemaic and Roman periods.During World War II, when the Italians invaded the oasis, the Siwans used these tombs as shelters.

Next, we will visit The Fortification of Shali, a 13th-century mud-brick fortress where the Siwa people used to live.

Although some of the historic town's buildings are still standing, their construction from salt, mud, rock, and plaster causes them to deteriorate each year.

Our next destination will be the Oracle Temple, also known as the Aghurmi or Amun Ra Temple.

The temple is associated with Alexander the Great’s visit to the oracle at Siwa.

We will eventually reach Fatnas Lake.

The small island of Fatnas in Birket Siwa can be reached by bicycle or on foot.From the west, the beautiful views of Gebel Bayda and Hamra provide a lovely backdrop for relaxation and watching the sunset over the lake.While walking around the garden, you can see various trees such as bananas, dates, and olives.After that, you will be transferred to your accommodation.
