DESCRIPTION

During this tour, we will take you to The Citadel of Salah al-Din, which was built by Saladin to protect the city from European attacks. Today, it stands as one of Cairo's main tourist attractions and provides a great view of the city.

Next, you will visit the Egyptian Civilization National Museum, which showcases the richness and diversity of Egyptian civilization across different periods.

Of course, when you visit Egypt, you should try the local food.

We will take you to a quality restaurant for lunch. At the end of the trip, you will enjoy a two-hour Felucca ride on the Nile, where you can experience the river's beauty. The River Nile is often called the "lifeblood of Egypt" because of its vital role in supporting agriculture and providing water for millions of people along its path.

Finally, you will have the chance to explore Old Coptic Cairo, where you can learn more about the history of Christianity and Judaism.
