DESCRIPTION

Tanoura Dance in Cairo

Tanoura dance, commonly known as Sufi whirling, is a traditional form of dance originating from Egypt and deeply connected to the Islamic Sufi tradition.

This captivating and meditative dance is performed by followers of a specific Sufi order, the dervishes. It is a must-experience cultural highlight when visiting Cairo.

The "Al Tanoura Heritage Band" is one of the most significant folkloric groups in Egyptian history. The band performs with a variety of traditional musical instruments, including the oboe, drum, and Rababa, creating a unique and enchanting atmosphere. The group was established in February 1988 and now consists of 50 members. Over the years, they have participated in numerous national events both within Egypt and abroad, as well as international cultural exchange programs and major international festivals.

Egypt is a country full of fascinating sights.

It is home to ancient landmarks like the Step Pyramid and beautiful natural areas such as the Nile River and the desert. People from around the world visit Egypt to explore its rich history and enjoy its breathtaking landscapes.
